BRUTAL MURDER COMMITTED ON STATEN ISLAND

Manhunt Starts For Slayer of Woman on Lonely Road.

New York, March 25.—One of the most intense manhunts in the city's history was in full swing today for the slayer of Mrs. Maud Bauer, 31, who was stabbed and shot to death by a motorist when she resisted his attempt to attack her on a lonely road on Staten Island.

All roads leading to the scene of the brutal murder were closed by the authorities this morning. Police afoot in uniform, on horseback, on motorcycles and in police automobiles, scoured the countryside. Detectives by the score joined the chase. The best clue the authorities had was that the slayer drove a small closed car.

"One of the most baffling homicides ever committed on Staten Island," was the characterization of District Attorney Fack.

Mrs. Bauer was slain fifteen minutes after she had left her mother's side to accept a lift from the man driving the sedan. Mrs. Bauer's car had become stalled; she had left it and was looking for a garage when the slayer drove along and offered to assist her.

Back in the stalled car, beside the mother of the victim were Mrs. Bauer's two children, Katherine, 6, and Helen, 3.

Police questioned one man, an insurance agent, but he was released when he proved an alibi.

The slain woman's mother, Mrs. George Pero, said her daughter started to walk up the road after the car had become stalled, to get a rope. Mrs. Bauer had gone about 75 feet along a deserted stretch of road when she hailed a man driving in her direction, in a sedan. She returned to her mother and said: "This gentleman is going to take me to the rope."

They then drove off. Twenty minutes later a man was seen driving in a sedan from the direction in which Mrs. Bauer had gone.

Three boys, who had been riding along the road on bicycles, found Mrs. Bauer's body stretched beside the road, near a small clump of trees. Her clothing was in disorder. Blood was flowing from a stab wound in the throat. There was a bullet wound in her abdomen. There were no signs of a struggle.

FRESH SENSATION IS MADE BY ROXIE STINSON IN PROBE

Washington, March 2.—Five men in Washington cleaned up $33,000,000 in one gigantic deal on the stock market in the fall of 1922, speculating in oil stocks, the Daugherty investigating committee was informed today by Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Jess W. Smith, the boon companion of Attorney General Daugherty.

Neither Daugherty nor Smith, however, were in on the deal, Miss Stinson said and Jess told her they were "sore" on that account.

She said Smith had told her the names of the men, but she declined to give them "until I'm cross examined."

The story of the $33,000,000 deal was related to the committee by Miss Stinson after she had tearfully and dramatically accused the attorney general of being "morally responsible" for Jess Smith's suicide. Her ex-husband committed suicide, she said, but was driven to it by Harry Daugherty.

How this was accomplished she did not say and the committee did not press her. Miss Stinson was a somewhat reluctant witness evidently owing to the absence of Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor, under whose direction she came to Washington. Wheeler was sick and the questioning was conducted by Senator Brookhart of Iowa.

Brookhart questioned Miss Stinson closely about the source of Smith's money in Washington.

Miss Stinson's reference to Smith's suicide was made in connection with an investigation that was launched quietly by the committee a few days ago to determine the circumstances surrounding Smith's death. This investigation was started because of rumors and insinuations that Smith may have met with foul play, although at the time of his death there was no intimation or hint that it was anything but self destruction.

SHOOT HER HUSBAND

This is the first photograph of Miss Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Jess W. Smith, Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty's closest friend, who killed himself in Daugherty's Washington apartment, to be taken when she appeared on the witness stand before the Senatorial investigating committee in Washington.

SUDDEN ATTACK IS FATAL TO MRS. MARY JOHNSON AT HOME

Suffering a sudden attack of heart trouble, after retiring Tuesday night, Mrs. Mary Johnson, 79, mother of Attorney Frank L. Johnson, was found dead at her apartment, on North Detroit Street, Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Johnson had been residing with Miss Belle Gatch on North Detroit Street, for the past several months.

Mrs. Johnson had suffered from heart attacks for a number of years. Her death was similar to the passing of her father and brother a number of years ago.

Mrs. Johnson's maiden name was Miss Mary O'Neal, the daughter of Thomas and Katherine O'Neal. She was born in Fairfield, Greene County July 13, 1844, and moved during her girlhood with her family to Logan County, where they lived for a number of years. After her marriage to Wesley Johnson, she lived in Bellefontaine, Ohio, until twelve years ago, when she and her son, F. L. Johnson moved to this city.

Mrs. Johnson preceded her in death 15 years.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by two sons, Charles Johnson, of Bellefontaine, and Frank L. Johnson, of this city; two brothers, Charles O'Neal, of Calera, Alabama; and Russell O'Neal, of Bellevue, Kentucky and two sisters, Mrs. W. E. Lindsey of Mobile, Alabama and Miss Carrie O'Neal, of Bellevue, Kentucky. A daughter died several years ago.

Mrs. Johnson was a member of the First Baptist Church, this city. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, awaiting word from relatives.

COOLIDGE CONFERS WITH DAUGHERTY

Washington, March 26.—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty had a conference of three quarters of an hour with President Coolidge today.

"Routine government business" was discussed, White House attaches reported.

Daugherty's visit to the White House, however, was coincident with that of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican leader of the senate, who has been urging the president to oust Daugherty.

LOUISIANA VOTES FOR GARLAND DUPRE

New Orleans, March 26.—J. Zach Spearing, non factional candidate, has been named as congressman from the second district of Louisiana to succeed the late J. J. Garland Dupre, according to unofficial returns today. He led his nearest opponent, Mrs. J. M. Thompson, daughter of the late Champ Clark by almost 4,000 votes.

Returns showed: Spearing 16,738. Mrs. Thompson 12,745. Walmsley, 2,624.

BLAST IS FATAL
Coshocott, O., Mar. 26.—Mrs. Harry Mulford, living near Bloomfield, this county, is near death today, due to an explosion which occurred Tuesday when she poured crude oil on a fire. Her clothing became ignited and she inhaled the flames.

NARROW MARGIN OF 2 THOUSAND OVER OPPONENT

Two Thirds of Republican Vote Are Accounted For.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 26.—The first returns announced from Republican state headquarters here today gave President Coolidge 20,944, and Johnson 18,840 from 598 of the 1,768 precincts in the presidential primary vote.

Earlier returns, compiled by newspapers had given Coolidge a slight smaller lead in a larger vote from 547 precincts. Returns from the rural precincts now coming in, are generally expected to be Senator Johnson's showing.

Although more than 1,200 rural precincts have not reported, they will represent about only one-third of the Republican vote as the cities recorded a comparatively heavy vote, while the bad weather cut down the farmer vote considerably.

McAdoo supporters claimed a two to one victory in the Democratic primary.

In the fight for the Republican nomination to the United States senate, Governor McMaster, who campaigned for Senator Johnson, led Senator Sterling by 3,587 votes.

Returns from 567 precincts gave McMaster 23,749

Sterling 20,162

It was believed that between 6,000 and 70,000 votes were polled in the Republican contest, the rain and snow which fell throughout election day, cutting down considerably the vote in rural districts.

Headquarters of both Republican presidential preference candidates were optimistic and predicted victory early today. Coolidge backers, believing that his lead would hold, and Johnson supporters confident that the rural polls, where his strength was believed greatest would overcome the city vote.

Washington, March 26.—Senator Peter Norbeck, Republican of South Dakota, telegraphed friends in the senate today from South Dakota that the primary returns there indicate a victory for Senator Hiram Johnson over President Coolidge.

"All returns indicate victory for Hiram Johnson, McMaster and Royal Johnson," said his telegram.

MEXICAN REBEL LEADER SAID DEAD

Fort Worth, Tex., March 26.—Reports picked up by radio stations here today, purporting to have emanated from New Orleans, carried the brief message that Adolfo De La Mureta, leader of the uprising against the Obregon government in Mexico, was lost at sea when his small schooner was struck by hurricane.

Reports here to indicate thorough members of his family, who awaited his arrival at New Orleans were frantic with grief.

SEE FOR AMERICA IS BEING URGED

Rome, March 26.—With the assembly in Rome of great numbers of prominent American Catholics, both clergy and laity, for the elevation of Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes and George William Mudelein to the Cardinalate, the formal investiture of which takes place in the basilica of St. Peter's Thursday, there has arisen discussion in Catholic circles, not restricted to Americans, concerning the possibility of the eventual setting up of the Holy See of one Cardinalatial See in America.

Such action would mean automatic elevation to the Sacred College of whoever might be consecrated to be Archbishop of the Archdiocese selected.

The choice of Archbishop Hayes and Mudelein to the honor at this time is regarded by leading American Catholics here to indicate thorough appreciation by the Vatican of the growing importance of the American branch of the Church in matters affecting the Catholic work.

The Persian Parliament has abandoned the idea of forming a Republic, but has deposed the extravagant, Paris-loving Shah and installed his two-year-old son in his place, under a regent. The Duchess of York, wife of the second son of the British rulers, is expecting a visit from the stork in June. Leon Trotsky, Soviet Minister of War, asserts that Russia stands ready to co-operate with Britain's Labor Ministry to obtain disarmament and to nullify the Versailles treaty. Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, is facing jail as a result of his refusal to testify before a Senatorial investigating committee. Carmi Thompson, of Ohio, prominent in the Harding campaign and Republican candidate for Governor in 1922, was summoned before the same committee to tell what he knows of oil interests' activities in the Republican national convention in 1922. Rev. Father Francis P. Duffy, fighting chaplain of the 155th (New York) National Guard regiment in the 42d (Rainbow) Division, one of the few chaplains who won the Distinguished Service Cross for heroism under fire, is ill in his New York City parish house, suffering from a severe nervous breakdown.

Scathing Denunciation of Investigations Made By G. O. P. National Committee

Washington, March 26.—The political campaign of 1924, that will get under way with a whoop as soon as falling gavel marks the close of the two great nominating conventions, probably will set new high records in American politics for bitterness, intensity, mud slinging and partisanship.

The shouting and bickering, charge and counter charge which for months has kept Washington in a turbulent state, constitute merely the prelude to the full chorus that will swing into action in July, according to all indications here today.

Both the Republican and Democratic national committees, upon which devolve the task of informing the electorate concerning the merits of their respective parties and demerits of the opposition are in the full swing of spring training for the session with pens poised and dripping harsh words.

Typical of the war of phrases, that already is well under way, a scathing statement was issued by the Republican National Committee today, which for sheer force and warmth of feeling outclassed anything that has yet emanated from headquarters of either committee. It was in reply to a number of Democratic statements, recently issued, which had for their moral "throw the rascals out."

It assailed with vitriolic bitterness the oil and Daugherty investigations and their guiding spirits, the two Democratic senators from Montana, Walsh and Wheeler. Under the heading of "the senate's rogues gallery," it commented on the jealous rivalry between the two committees, and said:

The Walsh committee held the boards for quite a while, counting that day lost which did not see some new slander broadcast from its committee room.

The Wheeler committee got a late start in the free for all slandering contest but with the very valuable aid of two blackmailers, a couple of self confessed hoodlums, it spurted ahead of the Walsh committee. Young Wheeler put it all over his political god father Walsh, of Montana, in grabbing the first page of the newspapers. But as soon as the tactics of the Wheeler committee became evident, the Walsh committee came right back and at this writing is one train robber ahead in the contest. Al Jennings' contribution is supposed to be political gossip, he obtained from a politician who was killed in a drunken quarrel with his paramour.

"If the innovation of proving honest men and public officials guilty of high crimes by introducing testimony of convicts and ex-convicts, forgers, bribe takers, murderers, train robbers and other criminals is to be followed then there is no end in sight of the present investigations until all the inmates of our penal institutions have been put on the stand."

"Jesse James and Catamity Jane and all the other outcasts of a generation died too soon. Some of them ascended the gallows and met a felon's death, when had they lived in these times, they might have taken a deluxe trip to Washington at the expense of the taxpayers paid out of senate funds."

Arriving in the nation's capital, they would have become the center of attraction, shown deference, photographed in all poses, taken night joy rides in senatorial automobiles and brought their careers to a climax by ascending the witness chair before some committee to spill the venom and their slander to the profit and glory of the Democratic party and the personal gratification of the political blackguards who have made the United States senate a cesspool of political filth over which floats the scum of their own putrid motives."

Washington is eagerly awaiting the Democratic retort to this Republican broadside and asking itself, incidentally, if "this is the March prelude to the campaign, what will the campaign itself bring, once it gets under way."

PLOT TO ROB BANK IN ST. LOUIS IS NIPPED BY POLICE
St. Louis, Mo., March 26.—A unique plot to rob the Mercantile Trust Company Bank, of this city, by which five Chicago and St. Louis Negroes obtained $12,000 and planned to obtain $500,000 more, was revealed here yesterday in a confession of James Reed, Negro janitor.

Money already stolen was paid on false checks. Reed said he had secreted J. C. Johnson, of Chicago, in the bank and after banking hours, Johnson would make new signature cards in his own writing, instead of the signature on the index card. Next day they would present a check for payment, the signature would be verified from the substituted card and the money paid. Two bank tellers were discharged as a result.

Twelve thousand dollars was taken before the fraud was detected. Theft of the $500,000 failed through a miscalculation. Two negroes were hidden in the bank's vaults, awaiting the end of the day's business, planning to attack two officers and take the money as they were about to lock it in the safe. Instead of two men, five men came, and the two plotters were seized.

Capture of the gang followed their theft of $19,000 in travelers' checks, $8,500 worth of which were recovered in Chicago, where George Pippas and Lawson Reed were taken when "shooting dice."

FIVE ARE DETAINED IN MURDER PROBE
Columbus, O., March 26.—Five men are still being held by the police today in an attempt to beat away the smoke screen that surrounds the murder of Morris Davis, alleged bootlegger, here Monday night.

Frank Strang, Harry Stein, Charles W. Ginn, Rocco Strang and William Kimmelman, are being held for investigation. Kimmelman, who is a boxer, told the police of threats made against Davis, who was shot and beaten with a hammer in his automobile as it stood near a curb.

The police are acting on the belief that the murder is the result of a bootlegger feud; Davis was charged by accomplices, it is said, with tipping off shipments to the police.

PENSION ISSUE SNAG ON WHICH POINCARÉ BREAKS

Suffers Defeat in Chamber Of Deputies—In Power Since 1922.

Paris, March 25.—Premier Raymond Poincaré's cabinet which has been in power since 1922, resigned today after being defeated in the chamber of deputies upon the question of pensions.

The defeat of the government was unexpected and sudden. Minister De Lasteyrie spoke against the proposed pensions amendment in a routine manner without even rising from his seat. "Then he asked for the vote of confidence."

Immediately afterward Premier Poincaré left for the Elysee palace to present the resignations of himself and his cabinet to President Millerand.

Poincaré was smiling when he emerged from the presidential palace at 1:30 o'clock. "My resignation is absolutely irrevocable," he declared to reporters.

The retiring cabinet was appointed January 15, 1922.

The government's defeat came during debate upon an amendment to amend the pension bill. Minister of Finance De Lasteyrie demanded a vote of confidence against the proposed amendment which the government opposed.

The cabinet lost by a majority of seven, the vote being: 271 against the government and 264 in favor of it.

After the ministry's defeat, Minister De Lasteyrie left the chamber followed by the other members of the cabinet.

Belief was expressed that President Millerand would exercise the utmost pressure to prevent Poincaré from quitting office, perhaps going so far as to refuse to accept his resignation.

M. Poincaré ever since the creation of his government has held two posts, that of Premier and Foreign Minister. His defeat comes at a critical time as delicate diplomatic negotiations are under way with Great Britain over the forthcoming report of the reparations experts.

Three British ministers have passed out of power since M. Poincaré assumed the stewardship of the French government. They were the governments of David Lloyd George, Andrew Bonar Law and Stanley Baldwin.

During all this turbulent period when Germany was refusing reparations payments and the French and Belgians took over the Ruhr, M. Poincaré held a steady course, always insisting upon a stern policy towards Germany.

While the chamber supported all Poincaré's reparations policies strong opposition developed when he drew up a series of financial reform measures, increasing all taxes 20 per cent and conferring fiscal dictatorial powers upon himself. This opposition has been growing in strength for the past eight weeks.

Washington, March 26.—"Most extraordinary," said Jules Jusserand, the French ambassador, when informed today of the resignation of the Poincaré government.

"It is surprising and regrettable," Jusserand declared, "in view of the splendid work which Poincaré has been doing for the French people."

Confirmation of the resignation of the Poincaré ministry was cabled to the state department today by Ambassador Herrick at Paris.

According to private advice, reaching Washington today, Poincaré's resignation is a political move, aimed at effecting a "cleanup" in his cabinet and the retirement of two of its members whose activities have been objectionable to the premier.

It is believed, according to these advice, that Poincaré will be invited tomorrow to form a new cabinet, and will do so with the elimination of the objectionable officials.

GIGANTIC PLOT TO SMUGGLE LIQUOR INTO U. S. REVEALED

Cleveland, O., March 26.—Ramifications of a gigantic plot to smuggle contraband liquor from Canada into the United States and distribute it through bootleg channels were being investigated by federal authorities here today, following the arrest of Mrs. Minnie Sacks, 30, of Toronto, Canada, at a leading downtown hotel. Mrs. Sacks is held under bond of $10,000.

Arrest of two men said to have been involved in the plot was prevented, federal authorities say, by premature publication of news of the arrest of the woman in a Cleveland newspaper.

According to District Attorney Bernstein, the woman acted as the Ohio agent for a large number of Canadian smugglers, who, he said, had shipped millions of dollars worth of contraband liquor into the state. Customs seals, tending to show that the contents of the cars had been inspected by customs officials and passed, were cleverly counterfeited by the gang, he declared, and in this way easy access to the bootleg trade was secured.

"COUNTY AGENTS"

From a page of "A Woman's Quest Into Farm Work," in one of our exchanges we take the following:

There are at present 2,100 county agents in the 3,330 counties of the United States. They work under the direction of the state agricultural colleges, co-operating with the Department of Agriculture. Many counties, not yet provided with a county agent, receive the help of special demonstrators, under the supervision of the state college of agriculture.

One of the first things a county agent does is to organize the farm families into associations if this has not already been done. Through their volunteer assistance he can multiply his usefulness, reaching every home and training leaders who will carry on the work in their own locality. The social and recreational needs of the community come in for the attention of the county agent as well as the more technical farm needs.

There has been a conscious attempt to make the home the unit of effort, planning a program of interest to the whole family and not dividing it into men's interests and boys' and girls' interests. This assures that the two latter classes of interests shall not be neglected.

There are about 800 women home demonstrators helping with farm dietetics, millinery, clothing or other projects who go about giving short courses here and there as arranged.

A recent plan for extending the work to the most people at the least expense is for a teacher to come into various counties one day each week and instruct there a class of selected leaders who promise to be faithful in attendance and to instruct a class in their home locality when they themselves have completed the course.

It is a particular delight to consider the work of the boys' and girls' clubs. The results of these have been so remarkable as to cause favorable comment in foreign countries among experts there. It is the opinion of Secretary Wallace that they will do more than anything else to put the farming of the future on a high plane.

An amazing amount of work has been done by boys and girls under these clubs. Innumerable pigs and calves and chickens have been raised; meats and fruits and vegetables which otherwise would have been wasted, have been canned or dried; besides all the education in keeping records, selecting seed corn, grading wheat, making hats, setting tables and generally revivifying country life.

One of the most helpful and delightful features of the boys' and girls' clubs is the assembly of young people, by the hundreds, at the state agricultural colleges for a week or ten days' short course. This outing—or "inning"—has been the mental and spiritual awakening of many a boy and girl. Texas university, for example, was recently, hostess to 300 girls from over the state, who came, chaperoned by their teachers, to occupy the dormitories, take a short course and visit the state fair.

Have you, Mrs. Reader, a home demonstration agent in your county? If not, that is something to look forward to. The influence of such a worker in raising the standards of the home life of the county is beyond computation. If you want one, bring the matter before your club and co-operate with your county agents in getting either a whole-time or at least a part-time home agent.

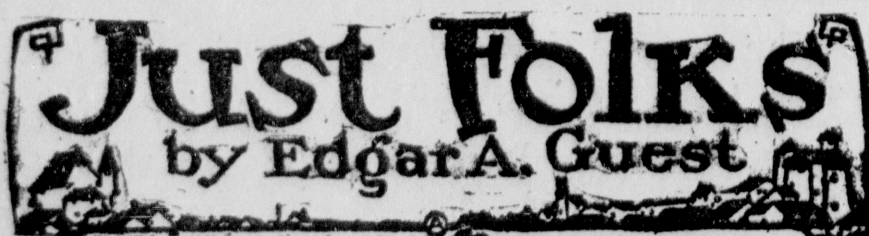

NEW USE FOR DIME NOVEL

The following article, signed by a father, was sent to several parents and their opinion, good or bad, asked. Honestly, more claimed their own taste for reading had been along in about this same line. We were surprised at this, because we had not taken this view, for most children that we know about had been encouraged in their early reading in the adventure stories that generally led to good habits.

"Why don't children read? The answer is that we have suppressed the 'dime novel.' In my boyhood, during the late eighties and early nineties, all of us avidly read the dime novels, thus acquiring the reading habit. It was natural enough for us to develop a taste for better literature as we grew older and wiser. Our progress was, from the dime novel to 'Tom Sawyer,' 'Huck Finn,' 'Treasure Island,' Cooper's and Scott's novels, and so on up to our capacity to assimilate good stuff. My recipe for getting children to read—and I may say it has been successful with my own children—is to start them on the most stirring 'blood and thunder' that is printed; in fact, on anything, so that they acquire the rapid-reading habit and a real taste for it. I will take my chance, that the later quality of their literature will improve, as a man's reading will exactly reflect his character. 'The dime novel, ner hurt anybody unless he was essentially unsound.'"

"THE SHOW" NOT ENJOYED

Senator Borah is given to intuitions. In Washington there are men who will swear he can hear the corn grow and the murmurings of the political grass roots. He has a hunch just now that Congress had better get back to work, dissolve itself as a Grand Jury and enter upon its somewhat neglected job of legislation. The Idahoan warns his colleagues that elections are won and lost by legislation, or the lack of it, just as surely as they are by scandals, inquiries and investigations. Pointing out that time grows short and the campaign is at hand, he urges the Nation would welcome a change of bill in the Senate what many have been saying, outside. There are indications that the country is getting tired of the show in Washington. He senses the reaction other have predicted. If Congress is wise, it will do more than listen, it will heed.

THE MONEY WORSHIPER

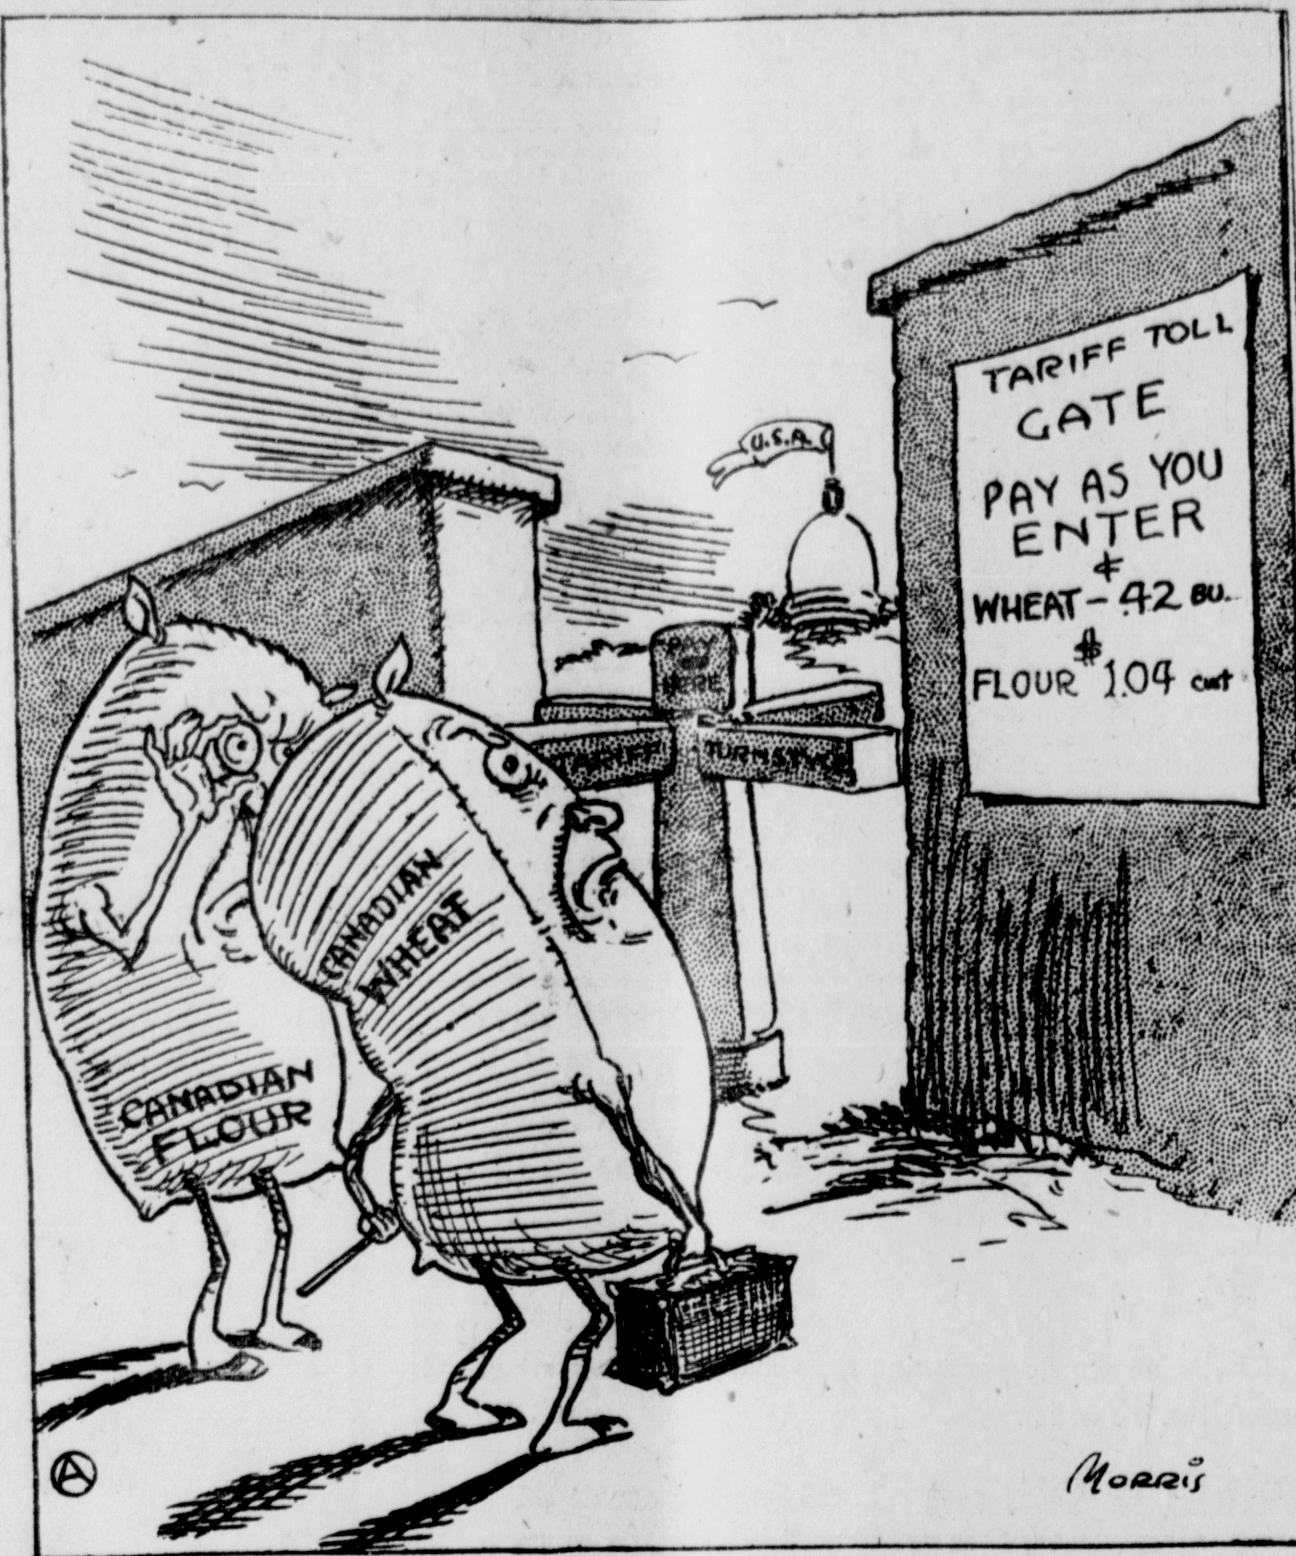

He had money, but men sneered
At the way his wealth had grown;
Talked behind his back and jeered,
Said his heart was cold as stone,
Told his stories of his greed,
Whispered of his doubtful deals.
He had money, yes, indeed,
But no friend behind his heels.

He had money—loads of it,
Gathered in a miser's way,
All squeezed dry of mirth and wit
And the friendships of the day.
Laughed at by the men he kne,
Made a thing of common jest,
He was rich, but this was true:

Gold as all that he possessed,
Workmen talked behind his back
Of the petty tricks he played,
Said he pinched the eagle black
When his clutch on it was laid.
No one ever spoke his praise,
No one ever called him friend,
And he rounded out his days
Rich, but lonely to the end.

Not for all the gold on earth,
Not for all that it can do,
Would I squeeze my life of mirth
And the joy of friendships true.
I would rather never save,
Never see my purse grow fat,
Than to money be a slave
And to live my life like that!

"MY WORD! A NEW ARRANGEMENT!"

1904-Twenty Years Ago-1924

A cyclone that got down to business in a way to do much damage left a track of destruction both in the vicinity of New Jasper and Jamestown last night.

All persons who are interested in the subject of good roads will turn out at the meeting to be held in the Court House Wednesday. A representative of the good roads bureau at Washington and other noted speakers will be present.

An art exhibit is to be held in Xenia, March 30 to April 2, when old masters as well as modern artists will be represented.

The High School basketball team, which, by winning the game with the Dayton Intermediates became champions of southern Ohio, played a close game with the St. Marys Institute, Dayton, resulting in victory and a score of 17 to 13.

Several young housekeepers have written to ask for directions for baking bread. The following recipe will bring excellent results if accurately followed:

To Bake Two Loaves of White Bread: Put one cup of hot, sweet milk into a good-sized bowl and add to it one cup of hot water and one tablespoon of beef drippings. Let this mixture cool to the tepid stage, then add one-half cake of compressed yeast which has been previously dissolved in an extra half-cup of luke-warm water. Also add one teaspoon of salt and one tablespoon of granulated sugar. Stir till the sugar is dissolved, and mix to a stiff batter by stirring in six and one-half cups of flour.

You now have your bread mixed. The next step is to turn it out onto a slightly-floured bread board and knead it for ten minutes. It should be quite elastic at the end of this period of kneading; place it back in the bowl, cover with clean dish-towels, and set in a warm place to rise overnight (it is a good plan to mix the bread around 8 o'clock in the evening.

Next morning you will find it double in bulk. Turn it out once more onto a floured board and, with a sharp knife, cut it into equal halves, from each half into loaf-shape with as little kneading as possible. Place each loaf in a bread pan greased with olive oil, and again set in a warm place, covered, to rise.

But this time care must be taken not to let the bread rise too much. Bread that has been allowed to rise too high results in a loaf which is flat across the top, instead of rounded. When it is about two-thirds doubled in bulk, from rising slip it into a moderate oven to bake from 45 to 55 minutes.

Bread is done when it shrinks away from the sides of the pan. Lower the oven heat slightly at the very end of the baking period. All the rest of the time have the heat near 375 degrees Fahrenheit if you use an oven thermometer—a "medium" oven.

Often the size of the pan is a result of bread-baking failures. My pans are three inches deep, seven and one-half inches long and four and one-quarter inches wide.

Today's Talks

THE GREATNESS OF ACCEPTANCE

Anyone can take the rich things and lucky moments that come to them, but how many are there who are strong enough to take the things they don't want?

I know of a great educator—many consider him the greatest America has ever produced. He was a graduate of Yale at the age of 15 and became president of one of the greatest universities in the world when he was only about 40 years of age.

And this is what this educator taught one of his sons—to do at least one thing each day that he preferred not to do! He also called the boy to his side and asked him what he wanted above everything else—and then asked him to give it up.

This son became, in his turn, a very great educator and teacher. It is so difficult to do the thing that we wish not to do—to accept the fates in what they tell us is for our good, even though we cannot see it that way.

Yet therein lies greatness! Sometimes I think that there are few things more poignant than this acceptance when our heart is set upon just the other thing.

In this connection I have the last words of two great men in my mind K. Lane: "I accept," and the others of those of the late Secretary Franklin President Wilson: "I am ready."

There is something heroic in this. There isn't a day but it comes to gospel of acceptance. test us all. It is in our willing response to the call that we rise above all our petty failures and mistakes and show the stuff of which we are honestly made.

We do not make events. They make us!

Why Pay the Penalty of Lying Awake?

MANY people spend hours at night, restlessly tossing from side to side, waiting for sleep. All because they drink coffee with their evening meal.

If the caffeine in coffee irritates your nervous system and keeps you awake when you should be asleep, recuperating your energies, why not stop coffee and drink Postum?

Postum is a pure cereal beverage, absolutely free from caffeine or anything that can disturb health and comfort. Many prefer Postum for its delightful aroma and flavor.

If you want to know the truth, change to Postum for a month or so, and see how much better you will sleep and feel.

Postum for Health

"There's a Reason"

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

Don't make the common mistake of buying securities just because the price is low. Consider the value. A low priced stock or bond is not necessarily cheap. In fact it is usually expensive, when earning power and assets are considered in relation to the purchase price.

Of course there have been examples of stocks and bonds making a phenomenal recovery, and these examples are always published widely. However, little is heard about the countless number of cases where a stock dropped to almost nothing and then "passed out."

The mere fact that a stock is "cheap" is usually evidence that the men who know the most about the company, do not believe it has any future, and are selling their holdings.

An outsider who is probably no judge of values should not come in and buy the stock which they are selling just because the price is low.

HOSPITAL REPORT SHOWS MAN TO BE ALCOHOL SUFFERER

F. Floyd Moles, 27, who was committed to the Dayton State Hospital in February after he was found wandering near Xenia following an attempted suicide and suffering from hallucinations, is suffering from alcoholic psychosis and acute hallucinosis, according to a report from the hospital received by Dr. H. C. Messenger, who examined him here.

Moles was examined March 21, by Dr. D. P. Young, of the hospital staff and institution, hydrotherapy and dental treatment was recommended. Moles was arrested here after he had leaped from an east bound Pennsylvania passenger train and slashed himself with a knife in the throat and side.

He was retained in the County Jail several days until the arrival of his father, William A. Moles, of Moulton, Ala., and was committed to the hospital by Probate Judge J. C. Marshall. Moles had been working in the steel mills near Pittsburgh and had visited an uncle in Middletown before leaving the train here on the return trip to Pittsburgh.

The examination report shows that Moles was free at that time of the hallucinations under which he had been suffering at the time of his commitment, during which he was in constant belief that he was being persecuted. The report shows he now realizes he is mentally ill and that the hospital is the proper place for him. Although the diagnosis shows him to be a sufferer from alcoholic psychosis, a mental disease superinduced by alcohol, Moles told the examining physician he had not used alcohol in any form since January 10. His memory is still bad, and he remembers only fairly well who brought him to the hospital or what was done with him on admission.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

They glided up to the extreme top of the house. She opened the gates and led the way into what was practically an attic sitting room, decorated in black and white. Wide-fung doors opened onto the leads, where comfortable chairs, a small table and an electric standard were arranged. They were far above the tops of the other houses, and looked into the green of the park.

"This is where I bring very few people," she said. "This is where, even after my twenty-eight years of fraudulent life, I am sometimes myself. Wait."

There were feminine drinks and sandwiches arranged on the table. She opened the cupboard of a small sideboard just inside the sitting-room. However, and produced whisky and a siphon of soda. There was a pall of ice in a cool corner. From somewhere in the distance came the music of violins floating through the window of a house where a dance was in progress. They could catch a glimpse of the striped awning and the long line of waiting vehicles with their twin eyes of fire. She curled herself up on a settee, flung a cushion at Sir Timothy, who was already ensconced in a luxurious easy-chair, and with a tumbler of iced sherbet in one hand, and a cigarette in the other, looked across at him.

"I am not sure," she said, "that you have not tonight dispelled an illusion." "What manner of one?" he asked. "Above all things," she went on, "I have always looked upon you as wicked. Most people do. I think that is the reason why so many of the women find you attractive. I suppose it is why I have found you attractive."

The smile was back upon his lips. He bowed a little, and, leaning forward, dropped a chunk of ice into his whisky and soda.

"Dear Lady Cynthia," he murmured, "don't tell me that I am going to slip back in your estimation into some normal place."

"I am not quite sure," she said deliberately. "I have always looked upon you as a kind of amateur criminal, a man who loved black things and dark ways. You know how weary one gets of the ordinary code of morals in these days. You were such a delightful antidote. And now, I am not sure that you have not shaken my faith in you."

"In what way?"

"You really seem to have been engaged tonight in a very sporting and philanthropic enterprise. I imagined you visiting some den of vice and mixing as an equal with these terrible people who never seem to cross the bridges. I was perfectly thrilled when I put on your chauffeur's coat and hat and followed you."

"The story of my little adventure is a simple one," Sir Timothy said. "I do not think it greatly affects my character. I believe, as a matter of fact, that I am just as wicked as you would have me be, but I have friends in every walk of life, and, as you know, I like to peer into the unexpected places. I had heard of this man Billy the Tanner. He beats women, and has established a perfect reign of terror in the court and neighborhood where he lives. I fear I must agree with you that there were some elements of morality—of conforming, at any rate, to the recognized standards of justice—in what I did. You know, of course, that I am a great patron of every form of boxing, fencing and the various arts of self-defense and attack. I just took along one of the men from the gymnasium who I knew was equal to the job, to give this fellow a lesson."

"He did it all right," Lady Cynthia murmured.

"But this is where I think I re-establish myself," Sir Timothy continued, the peculiar nature of his smile reasserting itself. "I did not do this for the sake of the neighborhood. I did not do it from any sense of justice at all. I did it to provide for myself an enjoyable and delectable spectacle."

She smiled lazily. "That does rather let you out," she admitted. "However, on the whole I am disappointed. I am afraid that you are not so bad as people think."

"People?" he repeated. "Francis Ledsam, for instance—my son-in-law in posse?"

"Francis Ledsam is one of those few rather brilliant persons who have contrived to keep sane without becoming a prig," she remarked.

"You know why?" he reminded her. "Francis Ledsam has been a tremendous worker. It is work which keeps a man sane. Brilliance without the capacity for work drives people to the madhouse."

"Where we are all going, I suppose," she sighed.

"Not you," he answered. "You have just enough—I don't know what we

More than 46,000 of you, to whom this is addressed, own the business of Swift & Company.

The officers and directors of Swift & Company, are responsible to these owners.

When Gustavus F. Swift first started in business in New England in 1868, he was alone. When he incorporated the business in 1885 as Swift & Company, six persons comprised the list of shareholders.

Today, in 1924, there are consumers, retailers, producers of live stock, employees of Swift & Company, in fact, thousands of Mr. and Mrs. Public in the list of shareholders.

No one man or family owns as much as 50 per cent of the stock of the Company; in fact, it would take about 900 of the largest shareholders to vote 51 per cent of the shares.

We are proud of the fact that about one-third of the list is made up of employees—and that these employees own over $20,000,000 worth of our stock.

Concrete Roads Are An Investment—Not a Speculation

Concrete Roads do not wear out at the end of eight, ten or twenty years.

Concrete Roads can be built to carry any kind of traffic, indefinitely—practically without repairs. They save the high cost of maintenance so common with less durable types of construction because they have the maintenance built into them.

Concrete Roads are all-the-year-round roads—no mud, no dust, no ruts, no holes. Rigid, even, skid-proof, they are roads after the motorist's own heart.

Remember, Concrete Roads are an investment—not a speculation.

The Portland Cement Association has a personal service to offer individuals or communities. This service is designed to give you more for your money—whether you use Concrete or have it used for you.

Our booklet R-3 tells many interesting things about Concrete Roads. Write this office for your copy
